

276 Glades seniors ready for world

CDS commencement on June 3... Glades Day is May 27

BELLE GLADE--The 24 seniors at Christian Day School won't be taking part but the end of the year activities at CDS get underway today with student council elections at the school, using the new computerized polls-city voters will be using in September.

The Rev. Ray Stedham, principal of the school, said the Christian Day graduation exercises will take place at 7:30 p.m. June 2 and will be the first graduation to be held in the school's new gymnasium.

Before that, however, kindergartners will get their day in the limelight, at 7:30 p.m. May 24 when the four-year-olds hold their annual program in the gym and on June 3 when the five-year-olds graduate in the church sanctuary.

The All-Sports Awards Banquet will be held at 7 p.m. May 27 at the Belle Glade Municipal Country Club.

Rev. Stedham said the graduating seniors' Baccalaureate Services have been set for May 29 in the church sanctuary with the Rev. Robert Atkins, pastor of the church, as the main speaker.

"We're not sure what time the service will take place yet," he said Tuesday. "We're torn between an evening and an afternoon service because a number of our seniors are faithful members of other churches and they'd have to miss out on services at their churches if the service is held in the evening."

He said a decision will be made at a later time.

There was also some uncertainty Tuesday about the speaker at the graduation ceremony and who will be the class valedictorian and salutatorian.

The last day of classes will be June 3, when the students will attend half a day.

BELLE GLADE--End of the year activities began this week at Glades Day School when the Band Awards Dinner was held at the school cafeteria and will continue Friday at 8 p.m. with Class Night in McWhorter Hall.

Baccalaureate services will be held for the 43 seniors in the school at Community United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Guldsher Blair, pastor, acting as the main speaker.

Monday will be the last day of classes for seniors, who will take their final exams Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The Glades Day Gators will host a football jamboree at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 26 at the Glades Day field. The junior varsity Gators will scrimmage each other. The first quarter, LaBelle will play King's Academy the second quarter, Glades Day will play LaBelle in the third quarter and the Gators will take on King's Academy in the final quarter.

Commencement exercises will take place at 8 p.m. Friday, May 27 in McWhorter with the school's two valedictorians, Sharon Clayton and David Teets, acting as the main speakers.

Kindergartners begin their end-of-the-year programs when the pre-schoolers at the Pahokee campus hold their graduation exercises Tuesday, May 31 at 7:30 p.m. in Pahokee.

The Belle Glade kindergartners will hold their graduation exercises Thursday, June 2 at 7:30 p.m. in McWhorter Hall. On June 3, school will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m. for the students although the teachers will be on hand for the first four days of the following week.

School Mistress Miriam Burgess said there will be somebody in the Belle Glade office from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. all this summer.

Sewer project may hike rates by 35%

SOUTH BAY--The City Commission took another long stride Tuesday night to spend $2 million to quadruple the city's sewage treatment capability, a plan which could mean a 35 percent increase in sewage fees for residents.

The commission accepted an engineering report and financial analysis from Charles Anderson of Barker, Osha and Anderson and Mayor Don Tanner, at the direction of the commission, signed agreements on behalf of the city to apply for money for the project from Farm Home Administration.

Anderson said he expected to hand deliver the documents to FmHA officials in West Palm Beach Wednesday morning and estimated the additional sewage facilities, which also would include the laying of more sewer lines, could be in operation by late 1979 or early 1980.

Should the project be completed, and FmHA officials forecast no problems, the city will receive another 500,000 gallons per day treatment plant addition to the existing 0.5 Million Gallon per Day (MGD) plant built in 1973 and another 1.5 MGD plant in addition.

The existing 3.5 acre containment and percolation pond would be enlarged to 15 acres to dispose of the effluent.

Anderson also noted the section of South Bay north of the Florida East Coast Railroad right of way along US 27 hasn't been provided with sewer lines. The plan calls for installation of line in this area and for repairs to the four-year old system to reduce ground water infiltration of the sewer lines.

If city plans work out, the project will be paid for by a combination grant and loan being applied for through FmHA. Anderson, estimated Tuesday night the $2 million price tag will be divided in half, with $1 million being given outright to the city and the other million dollars being loaned.

The city is already in debt on bonds issued in 1948, 1963 and 1973 to the tune of $1,636,100 but Anderson pointed out the 1948 bond, with a balance of $66,000 will be paid off this year, that the money is already in the bank.

The commission has already laid plans to consolidate the other two bond issues with the one which will be required to pay off the loan for the proposed sewer project.

To help pay that bond off, Anderson said the city could use more of its cigarette tax but he recommended instead a rate increase for users of the sewer.

South Bay Finance Director A.R. Grigsby confirmed Anderson's statement that the city is now using only one-third of the cigarette tax income, all of which was pledged to the bond liquidation.

Grigsby said the city receives $60,000 a year from the cigarette tax.

Here's mud in your eye

A MUDDY LANDING and a bruised chin were the only casualties in this early morning accident Monday. Angela Patricia Brereton, 36, of 1150 Palm Beach Road in South Bay suffered the minor injury when her north bound car struck another on SR 715. The other vehicle, driven by Horace Lee Mann, 16, of 250 N.W. Ninth St. in South Bay, had slowed to make a turn at Southwest Avenue H and after the impact, Ms. Brereton's car went out of control and into the mud-filled drainage ditch on the east side of the road. Neither her passenger, Aldon O'Neal, 24, nor Mann's passenger, Melvin Brown, 17, of 255 S.W. 12th St. in South Bay, were injured. Ms. Brereton and her passenger were helped across the hood of her car to dry land.

Accusations against seiners growing

BELLE GLADE--The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce decided last week to demand the rules and regulations regarding commercial seining of Lake Okechobee be enforced or the program killed.

The Chamber board of directors unanimously agreed the Chamber should send a letter to the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, Gov. Reubin Askew and others to request the enforcement.

Citing newspaper article written on the subject last week, Director Earl Meridith said he was in favor of commercial seining when the matter first came up and he's still in favor of it as long as it's done according to the rules set forth by the Commission.

"But right now," he said, "if you go on the levee side of the Lake, you can see fish guts and other dead fish someone is chopping up and throwing overboard."

Director John Turnbull said he had been opposed to the commercial fishing program, which began last October, and he is still opposed to it because he feels it is ruining the lake for sports fishing.

"There are a lot of individuals out in private boats who have observed violations," Meridith said. "They're fishing in close to Bacom Point without anything being done about it."

The Chamber also decided to send copies of the letter to Jay Landers who heads up the Department of Environmental Regulation, the Palm Beach County Legislative Delegation, other chambers of commerce in the area and to various newspapers to solicit support for the request.

The Chamber was asked to be represented at a meeting called by the Bassmasters, a Belle Glade fishing club, Wednesday evening at the local Masonic Lodge.

The meeting was called by the Bassmasters, and representatives of several groups and the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission promised to attend, to discuss the violations individual fishermen claim to have seen.

Power outage brings in back payments

BELLE GLADE--Clerks all over town were idled during the power outage which lasted the better part of the working day Monday last. Florida Power and Light office manager Dall Stapp said an unexpected side effect was the payment of a number of delinquent bills.

The entire city, as well as most of South Florida, was left without power shortly after 10 a.m. Monday when an $80 relay at the F.P. & L Turkey Point generating station caused four of the corporation's power plants to go off the state power net.

Clerks and typists all over the city were idled as their electric typewriters went dead. Lights went out and buildings became overheated in the absence of air conditioning.

Belle Glade Police Chief Charles Goodlett said he had deployed every available officer to direct traffic at strategic locations but there were still a number of intersections where motorists were left to simply use caution and their best judgement.

Police Lt. Michael Miller reported, however, the situation seemed to be sufficient in most cases since there was only one minor accident reported, at Southwest Fifth Street and West Canal Street, in relation to the outage.

Several buildings in town, including Glades General Hospital, the Palm Beach County Glades Office Building and the Police Station, had at least partial power throughout the outage as emergency generators took up the slack.

Public Works Director Ron Sigmon said the city's Public Works Department was also able to handle the situation with no problem as generators were placed at sewer lift stations and other strategic points to provide power.

Grigsby talks resigning...again

SOUTH BAY--The City Commission will meet in a workshop session Tuesday night in still another discussion with South Bay Finance Director in charge of personnel A.R. Grigsby, who announced Tuesday his plans to resign at the end of the month.

Grigsby said he was willing to consider, and the commissioners indicated they were willing to discuss, the possibility Grigsby, who has talked about resigning several times over the past few months, might continue to work part time as a consultant in the city's plans to add on to the municipal sewer system.

Charles Anderson, of Barker, Osha and Anderson, was on hand to deliver a report on the project and strongly suggested the commission consider retaining Grigsby, fins a suitable replacement as quickly as possible or make other arrangements.

When Mayor Don Tanner asked at the regular meeting if the city should advertise for a city administrator, Commissioner Billy Wells said he felt that would be an appropriate action.

Commissioners Jay Smith and Vernita Cox didn't comment and Commissioner Woodrow "Woody" O'Neal was absent. The commissioners decided to explore all avenues during the workshop next week.

In other action, the commissioners agreed to have Barker, Osha and Anderson do the engineering work necessary to install a water line between South Bay and Belle Glade to be used in case of emergencies.

Mrs. Cox opposed the motion on the grounds she said she feels the city ought to farm out smaller engineering jobs to local engineers although the city has retained Barker, Osha and Anderson as consulting engineers.

Grigsby informed the city he has learned the city has been named to receive slightly more than $38,000 in Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds to hire seven additional personnel, although he hasn't been formally notified as yet.

By the time you read this, I will hopefully be heading toward Mississippi and my tenth-year high school class reunion.

This will be the first ever reunion since 67 or so of us walked down the auditorium steps, happily flipping our cap's tassels, at Tylertown High School.

It'll be a lot of fun to find out what happened to Jerry and Keith and Roger and Linda Ruth and Stanley and Cathy and Harold and all the others.

I do know that a surprising number of my old classmates are stuck around the old hometown, making their livelihood from the Red Clay of Mississippi.

This bears out recent data that indicates more and more people are moving to rural areas, or never leaving them in the first place.

I grew up in a rural area and the Pahnkee-Belle Glade area certainly fits that description. And I fully intend to stay in rural areas the remainder of my life.

Different strokes, as the old saying goes. Let the city dwellers have their nightclubs. I'll take a dark night with the frog gig on Lake Okechobee. Let them have their swank, neon-lit city streets. There are a lot of us who prefer to walk in safety through the quiet neighborhoods.

More and more of them are coming back to the things we have now.

And I can't blame them a bit.

I don't know the guy's name, but he certainly was impressive.

The other night, I went down to the local convenience store to pick up a package of cigarettes and as I stood in line watching him, I couldn't help but admire his enthusiasm.

The fellow in front of me was obviously about to get a party going as he had an armload of beer cans. As he walked up to pay the fellow, he was advised this particular story was having a sale on wine and wouldn't that go well with the folks who didn't want to drink beer?

The guy agreed and gathered in a couple of bottles of gray-squeezings. Presto, instead of just a beer sale, there went some wine, too.

Then a lady came in and butted into the line, which I didn't mind because I was in no hurry and wanted to watch this guy in action a little more.

She was buying one of the latest movie magazines and old super salesman, as he was ringing up the purchase, told her this other magazine had just come in and had some story in it she might be interested in. Even went so far as to open a box and show her a copy of it. She wound up buying it.

About this time, I backed off and let someone else have my place in the line, trying to figure out how to approach this guy with an offer of a job.

Several more customers came through and it was a repeat...each sale brought a cheery smile and offers of other goods the fellow judged the customer may be interested in. Several "bonus" sales were chalked up as a result.

Not ever having stood behind a cash register in a convenience store, I can't really say for sure, but I would presume it is the kind of work that can become very dull. Although I have very seldom been treated with discourtesy by any of the cashiers at any of the convenience stores I have shopped at. But the failure to properly educate the children can't be laid entirely on the shoulders of the educators. No matter how sensible and skilled the educators are, they can't do much without support from home.

Each customer was met with a "good evening", what else can I do for you" smile and when his purchase was completed, he was wished a sincere goodnight and "be sure to stop in again".

Too bad I don't have an opening on the staff...any business could use a man of that caliber. He was certainly an asset to that particular convenience store.

What can I say? When it came my turn, I wound up walking out of there with a pack of cigarettes, a magazine, and some milk that he told me I may need for son Burke, whose bottle was running low as he stood with me in the store. And he was right.

APL, a disaster for everyone

The Adult Performance Level Test this year at Glades Central was an unmitigated disaster.

Of the 244 juniors who took the APL, as it's usually known, fully 46 percent couldn't get 60 percent of the answers correct in one or more of the five sections of the 200 question examination.

It's a disaster for the students who took and failed the test. Unless they can pass one of the make-up tests being offered in August and January, they won't get a high school diploma, even if they are able to complete their studies satisfactorily.

They'll be getting a certificate of attendance and, while no one knows all the ramifications of that yet, it won't be good.

They'll have a hard time getting employment except in the hewers of wood and haulers of water category.

They may not be allowed entrance into college, even the junior colleges whose "open door policy" require them to accept any high school graduate because they may not be defined as graduates.

As of now, there are no plans to allow them to continue attendance at normal high school classes if they've otherwise successfully completed the required 20 credits of high school work. Although how they could successfully complete such work without the ability to pass the APL is beyond us.

The APL is without a doubt the most practical test of general knowledge required to "make it" in today's society we've ever seen. If a person can't hack this basic survival exam, he's in trouble, real trouble, when the time comes to make it on his own.

Because the general public will read the results of the test as an indictment of the public school system, not only in the Glades but throughout the county, the test was a disaster for the schools.

And while the result of the test isn't entirely the fault of the schools, that indictment is at least partially valid.

It's valid because of the system's adoption, years ago, of the so-called "social passing" theory, which forced teachers to continue passing students into higher grades whether they had mastered their more basic skills or not.

The theory, only now being reluctantly discredited, was that to fail (or hold back, as the euphemism goes) a child would prove traumatic and therefore was a no-no.

The social passing theorists seemed to have entirely forgotten, or ignored, the fact that a school child has the right to fail. Because of failure of a grade in school is traumatic, and we don't believe it is such a trauma in the early grades where the chance for a second try is so important, how much more traumatic is failure in the "real world", which isn't nearly as forgiving as the school system?

But the failure to properly educate the children can't be laid entirely on the shoulders of the educators. No matter how sensible and skilled the educators are, they can't do much without support from home.

And that support hasn't been evident.

Glades educators report the truancy rate here is traditionally high. The best educators in the world can't teach something to a child who isn't in class to be taught.

And if the child doesn't skip a day of class through 12 years, it's still hard to teach him or her anything when he or she has no desire to learn; if there is no belief in the value of education.

That motivation can come only partially, from school. No teacher charged with the education of a class of 30 or more students can be as effective in supplying motivation as a single parent or older relative for whom the child holds a deep respect.

And that motivation can't be supplied by a parent who isn't interested or isn't convinced himself. Reach Out, an organization of concerned citizens headed by W.C. Taylor, supplied a tutoring program, free of charge, to the juniors who eventually took the exam and only one third of the junior class responded to the offer of help.

More damning is Taylor's report that Reach Out was only able to get 50 parents in the entire community to show enough interest to come to the meetings, much less take an active part.

Which is an indication of the disaster the test was for the community; the Black community in particular and the community as a whole in general.

One of the 114 Glades Central students who failed the APL was white Anglo. The other 113 were Blacks or members of other minorities.

One of the more respected members of the Black community of Belle Glade said it. Welfare is no favor for the recipient. How can a segment of the community get ahead when a large part of it is not only permitted, but encouraged, to live on the dole?

And welfare is where the kids who can't pass the APL are headed, or at least the majority of them. These kids are going to fail when they grasp for the good life. They'll fail and there'll be no euphemistic "hold back" to give them a second chance.

And that's where the disaster to the whole community comes in. When those kids fail, it'll be the taxpayers as a whole who'll have to pick up the slack.

What do we do about it? The place to start is where the kids start; in kindergarten, in the first, second and third grades. Make sure the elementary schoolers have mastered the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic before being asked to go on to the more complex subjects where those basic skills must be used.

Failure in the fourth grade wouldn't be the trauma of failure in junior high or high school or the disaster of not being able to get and keep a decent job.

Fortunately, the schools are already beginning the swing that way. They haven't gone far enough but they have started. Parents must get involved. If they don't care about their children's education, who can expect the children to care? Or the teachers?

An alternate should be made available to the kids who simply can't cut the mustard in the esoteric subject matter leading on to college. The West Area Vocational Center, already in the planning stages, can take this role. Community involvement is already apparent here and that's good, but this is one place where more is better.

Finally, why wait until a student is one year away from graduation before beginning the process of finding out whether he should receive a diploma or a certificate of attendance? Test early and test often.

Here again, the schools are already moving in the right direction, but they need a push from the community to make sure they continue.

What's being done? Why don't you get interested enough to find out?

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

I was sitting in Judge Don Adams' county court room last week to see what was going to happen in what came to be known as "Bludworth's Welfare Fraud Day" but some of the "wage" interesting pleas came after the fraud cases were disposed of.

I guess it's the same in court as it is anywhere else. A guy sees something work for someone else and he figures he can't improve on success so he tries the same thing.

There is one fellow arrested for grand larceny Judge Adams found indigent and turned over to the public defender, actually his assistant, Sam Powers, who promptly entered a plea of not guilty and asked for a jury trial which would naturally take place on the coast.

But instead of sitting down, the man in the dock drew stares when he said he didn't want to waste time with a trial. He wanted to plead guilty and get it over with, if the court please and maybe if the court don't please.

So Judge Adams, who happens to be one of the more eminently sensible lawyers-turned judges it's been my pleasure to know, proceeded to ask a few questions, forthwith, to wit, dispose factor, pluribus unum and a few other legalities to boot.

"Why do you want to plead guilty?" "I just want to go ahead and get it over."

"Why did you steal those cameras?" Some mumbled, shuffling of feet and downcast eyes and finally, "I don't know." (I figured the answer to that was easy. He either wanted to take a lot of pictures or he figured he could hook 'em somewhere and get some bread to live on.)

"You know the state attorney is recommending 60 days in jail. If you were the judge sitting up here and I were you standing down there, what would you do? Would you give 60 days?"

Now that's a trick question. It's like the drill sergeant, in boot camp, asking a hapless draftee, "Would you make do with a wife?" You might as well drop and start giving pushups because you know that's what he's after anyway. But after some bawling and hawing around, our frustrated photographer decides, heck yes, if he were wearing the black robe, he'd give Mr. Adams the two months in the brig.

And that's about the time the judge threw in some psychology and told the defendant he was only going to give him 30 days, with the understanding that if he ever came before him again, he might throw away the keys after slamming the doors.

Another guy, up for receiving stolen goods, came to all the proceedings in and obviously figured if it worked once, why not try for twice. So he pled guilty.

"And why are you pleading guilty?" the judge wanted to know. "I just want to get it over with today," came the reply.

"Well, if you want to get it over with today," came the retort from the bench. "I can send you on your way to Raiford to start a five year sentence. Is that what you want?" Talk about coping a plea, that gentleman backed off the guilty plea a bit quicker than he got on it.

Then there was the comment Don made the following Tuesday at Rotary when he said he'd prepared one talk but the prep was there and it made him nervous so he'd see the Rotarians.

Can't help think, though, that if we make him nervous, it ain't half as nervous as we get in front of him...especially in his court.

And speaking of the law, didja hear the one about the diegman, the engineer and the lawyer talking around the local tavern talking about who had the oldest profession? Well, you're about to. The preacher (couldn't be a Baptist, considering where they were) started off the competition, saying his profession went all the way back to Jesus Christ.

All three of the gentlemen in question ignored a certain lady in red sitting on a nearby bar stool who claimed the title and the engineer, getting in his licks, quoted Genesis One.

"Don't you remember, pastor, where it said that in the beginning, all was chaos and God made Heaven and the earth? Well, that was one heckuva engineering job."

"Huh," said the lawyer, "who do you think caused all that chaos?"

Minding the Store

By Andy Campanaro

Seems it's that time of year again when the retail stores get out their inventory and have sales, sales, sales.

Soon school will be out and the folks will take their vacations to the mountains. Got two friends going on vacation — one to New York City and the other to Mississippi.

Now, I can't see where either one of those is a vacation. Not when if you want to go to New York, you have to do it to drive to West Palm Beach, and if you want to go to Mississippi — hey, you're already there, fellas.

Things here and coming up — The Limited Edition is coming back in the parking lot of the Canal Shopping Center, thanks to many people; but basically Simon Train and WSWN, Pete King's Motor Homes of America, Ben Franklin, Glades Drugs (Wal-Mart Agency), and a couple of others. Grapevine says the Kane K. of Clewiston (a square dance outfit) will be there, too, along with live broadcasting from WSWN. That's scheduled for May's last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The same weekend a regatta with many, many boats (ships?) will be at the Marina, information center for that is Belle Glade Machine Shop's Don Aspey.

Up in Indiantown, billed as South Florida's Number 1 Country and Country Rock Group, David Lowman and the Southern Express, playing from 9:30 p.m. until 7 every Friday and Saturday night...that's at the Seminole Chik Ki room in Indiantown, also in Indiantown this Sunday afternoon.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank all the friends and neighbors who helped us after the loss of our son, Oliver Santoyo.

It is such a comfort to know that we were blessed with so many good friends who loved him as we did. He's gone now and we miss him. But we are grateful to the one who tried to make grief easier to bear.

We will remember you always, God bless you each and every one. From his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Santoyo and his three brothers, David, Hubert and Martin, all of Belle Glade, and sister, Janie.

Kindergarten roundup is scheduled

CANAL POINT—Canal Point School Kindergarten Roundup will be held in the school Media Center Wednesday, May 25, at 7:30 p.m.

The Kindergarten teachers will be there to discuss the program and the Health Nurse will be there to talk about immunizations and other health needs.

Parents with children planning to enroll in the kindergarten program are requested to attend the Wednesday night, May 25th session, so that they will know exactly what they must do to complete the necessary registration information prior to August 25, registration day, or prior to Aug. 29, the first day of school.

Each child must have an immunization certificate, birth certificate, a Doctors certificate and Dental certificate from the Dentist. Certificates of immunization or exemptions are available at the Palm Beach County Health Department, 1024 NW Ave. D, Belle Glade. The Health Department is open from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday for inoculations.

How fortunate we are that our children may receive the gift of freedom. As Americans, it is our duty to protect this freedom so that it remains a gift for future generations.

We must be sound in our appraisal of the men we choose to follow. Our children in turn must have the judgment they need to choose their leaders.

It is our task to teach them that freedom must be earned if it is to be preserved. We must teach them self-control rather than rebellion. If they cannot learn to live within the laws of our society, have they earned the right to the freedom that has been placed in their care?

We can give our children the education, the mental and moral discipline, and most important, the example they need to protect their heritage. Let's show them how to be law-abiding AMERICANS, proud of our country and the system around which it is built.

Remember—as we SUPPORT AMERICA—we are insuring that our children will continue to be born free.

209 seniors at Glades Central ready to graduate

BELLE GLADE—Graduating seniors at Glades Central High School are already well into the traditional end-of-the-year celebration traditional with graduating seniors everywhere, and will culminate June 10 with graduation exercises.

The annual prom was held last Friday and a number of the seniors spent Saturday night as guests of Walt Disney World in the tourist attractions' annual Grad Nite.

A Band Appreciation Concert will be presented at 8 p.m. tonight by the school's music department in appreciation for community support which will send the Maroon Machine to Mexico City from Saturday through next Wednesday to participate in the International Band Festival.

The concert will take place in the GCHS gymnasium under the direction of Bank Director Willie Pyfrom.

The school's annual Field Day will take place at 1 p.m. Friday, featuring events such as a watermelon eating contest, a hunt for pennies in a plastic swimming pool filled with flour, an egg throw and other events.

A physical education demonstration night will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night, where students will show what they've learned in such things as tumbling and choreographed dances.

There will be no school on May 30 in honor of Memorial Day but the annual Music Awards Banquet will be held at 8 p.m. June 2 in the cafeteria.

June 3 will be Senior Class Night in the school's gym, where senior achievement awards will be distributed along with scholarships.

Baccalaureate services will be held at 4 p.m. June 3 in the GCHS gymnasium with the Rev. Guldmar Blair of Community United Methodist Church presiding.

June 17 marks the beginning of the last week of school with final exams beginning on June 7 for seniors and on June 8 for underclassmen. June 13 will be the last day of school, acting as an extra day lost during the January freeze.

Commencement exercises begin with pre-commencement concert by the Glades Central Band under the direction of Willie Pyfrom at 7 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

Graduation will get underway at 7:30 p.m. with a welcoming address by the salutatorian, Paula Lockett. Valedictorian, Cassandra Swain will give the farewell address and diplomas will be handed out by Clifford Ripley, the assistant superintendent of administrative services for the Palm Beach County School system.

Besides Miss Swain and Miss Lockett, GCHS honor graduates will be Jill Burnette, Angelica

Harrison, Selvin Cole, Marta Mirabal, Ouida Singleton, Irene

Souvenir, Bradley Pollitt, Janet Lewis, Michael Fincannon, Clare

year from the state in cigarette taxes and is using $20,000 to retire city debts.

"You could use more of the cigarette tax money," Anderson told the commissioners, "but I'd look long and hard before deciding to do that."

He and Grigsby said they'd done a quick survey of five other cities in the area and while the information hadn't been broken down for the commission yet, Grigsby said a first look indicated South Bay's sewer rates are lower than any of the five.

Anderson said the city should consider an increase in rates from the current average residential charge of $4 per month to $5 or, preferably $5.50 per month.

The commissioners made no decision on the rate increase but accepted and generally approved the study. They also authorized Tanner to execute agreements binding the city to equal employment opportunities, a non-discriminatory agreement, a loan resolution, an application for federal assistance, a legal review agreement and an agreement for engineering services.

CAPTAIN CLAUDE TINDALL (center) will be honored Saturday by members of the Glades Republican Club at a barbecue to be held at the Belle Glade Marina. Tindall is shown here at a recent Republican gathering with Sheriff Richard Wille, County Commissioner Bill Bailey, State's Attorney David Bludworth and Glades Republican Club President Michael Miller.

Republicans to honor Tindall

BELLE GLADE—Tickets are still on sale throughout the county for a barbecue in honor of retiring Capt. Claude A. Tindall of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office. The barbecue begins at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Belle Glade Marina.

The Glades Republican Club is sponsoring the barbecue to honor Tindall for his 40 years of law enforcement ending July 31, with the last 11 years in the Glades.

John Turnbull, ticket salesman for the barbecue, said tickets are available from any member of the local Republican Club.

Turnbull said tickets are also available in Belle Glade by calling Mrs. Sue Bailey at 996-2740 or Mrs. Bee Wood at 996-3637 and in Pahokee by calling Mrs. Betty Hatton at 924-7483.

The cost per plate for barbecue chicken with all the trimmings is $5.

"We decided we should have a barbecue," Glades Republican President Michael Miller said, "and we thought we should show our appreciation to Capt. Tindall. We worked together on a daily basis (Miller is the former assistant state's attorney) and cooperation from Capt. Tindall's office was excellent. He was a real help to me."

Tindall came to the Glades in February 1966 at the request of former Palm Beach Sheriff Martin M. Kellenberger and took over the Glades substation as a lieutenant, earning captain's rank under Sheriff William Heitman.

Among his many awards during his 40-year law enforcement career, Tindall was recently presented the Liberty Bell Award by the Palm Beach County Bar Association. Entertainment for the evening will be provided by Cole Broderick of Dick Blackwin Baldwin organs, on the organ.

Chamber building to be discussed with city

BELLE GLADE—The placement and accessibility of a proposed Chamber of Commerce building will be the subject of a workshop the Chamber board of directors intends to request with the Belle Glade City Commission.

After hearing a report by Building Committee Chairman Fred John that the commission has suggested the building be built on South Main Street and Southwest Avenue F instead of Main and Avenue E, and his opinion the commission might be persuaded to allow a driveway entrance off Avenue E, the directors decided to request a workshop to discuss the matter.

"As I understand it," John, a past president of the Chamber, said, "The DOT (State Department of Transportation) won't allow an entrance on South Main but I believe the board may be able to persuade the commissioners to allow an entrance off Avenue E."

The entrance drives originally came up three weeks ago in a commission workshop when commissioners William Grear and Tom Altman argued against drives off either Main or Avenue E because of increasing traffic and difficulties they forecast when drivers attempt to make a left hand turn into such a drive.

Then, and at the regular meeting May 9, Mayor Ralph Kirk and Commissioner Aubrey Farmer said they saw nothing wrong with an entrance off Avenue E. Commissioner Kenneth Harris said little during either discussion.

"I think we, both the board and the committee, ought to meet with the commissioners before any decision is made," said Board member Effie Grear, "and point out that a Chamber of Commerce building is an asset to the community but we don't need it on an out of the way corner."

Other board members pointed out, as John did in the commission meeting on May 9, that there are two service stations at the intersection with drives off both streets and an insurance building on the third corner with entrances off both streets.

The original plans called for the building to sit with its front on a diagonal on the southwest corner of the intersection and a semi-circular drive connecting Main and Avenue E.

Architect Chester Cone has notified both the commission and the Chamber he can work with plans either way but the directors indicated they will hold off any plans until they meet with the commissioners.

GCHS Newsnotes

By Rodney Bickel

BELLE GLADE—The GCHS softball team completed an outstanding season by defeating Dillard High School at Glades Central in the sectional finals with a score of 12-10. This earned them the opportunity to play Mariana High School in Tampa for the state title. The final score was: Mariana 20, Glades Central 8.

Tuesday evening, May 17, at 7:30 p.m., students from the various physical education classes of GCHS demonstrated a few of the skills which they have learned this year. The presentation was open to the public. Graham Frost, Jesse White, and John Tudor directed this effort.

On Wednesday, May 18, at 6:30 p.m. the Athlete of the Year banquet sponsored by Kentucky Fried Chicken and Channel 12 (WPEC) was held at the Knight's Center in West Palm Beach. At this annual event the "Athlete of the Year" was chosen from those students who were chosen "Athlete of the Week" earlier this year.

Music Department night will be tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the gymnasium. Members of the band and chorus will be performing for the public, free of charge. We invite you to attend this pleasant evening of entertainment.

The annual field day of GCHS will be held Friday for grades 9-12 in the Memorial Stadium. All grades are eligible to enter any and all of the various events, ranging from track and field to riding a greased pig.

This week the 1977 Shield Yearbook was distributed by the journalism staff to students and faculty.

The GCHS "Maroon Machine" will be leaving for their trip to Mexico on May 21. Thanks to the support of students, faculty, and the community this trip enables the band to compete in an International Band Concert contest. The band will be staying at Mexico City and will return home on Wednesday, May 23.

Quaker grant given

BELLE GLADE—The son of a chemical engineer at the Belle Glade Quaker Oats furfural plant was named Monday as the recipient of a Quaker Merit Scholarship, offering him the chance to follow in his father's footsteps.

Plant Manager Wayne Small presented the scholarship to George E. Romagosa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Enrique A. Romagosa of Palm Springs in a presentation ceremony Monday afternoon while the elder Romagosa looked on. George, a senior at Cardinal Newman High School in West Palm Beach, received the scholarship from the Quaker Oats Foundation, philanthropic arm of the Quaker Oats Company.

One of Quaker's programs Belle Glade is now benefiting from is a grant which is paying for educational specialists to visit Glades Central High School to offer the benefit of their expertise in advanced teaching techniques. Small said Monday the local plant is now in the act of applying for a year's extension to that grant.

Romagosa said he expects to use the scholarship he received Monday to study engineering at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

areas. Kenneth Fitzpatrick was chosen the All-Conference shot putter. His best effort this year was a heave of 51'4".

Freddie Garrett is the 1977 All-Conference discus thrower. His best mark has been 139'8".

Allen Johnson was named to the honors team in the 440 dash event. He has run the quarter mile in 50 seconds even.

Mickey Bradley won the honors in the 330 yard intermediate hurdles with a best time of 41 seconds.

Steve Wilson, who began to hit his stride in the second half of the season, was named to the All-Conference team for his competition in the two mile run, with a best time of 10:16.1.

Joe Byrd was named for his participation in the sprint medley relay team.

Each of the six players were chosen by the other coaches in the conference, with each coach not participating in naming his own athletes. The other schools involved are Atlantic, Suncoast, North Shore, Cardinal Newman and Pahokee High Schools. Atlantic won the conference championship.

Of the six track competitors, Coach Willie McDonald said three will graduate and three will return for next year's competition. The seniors are Fitzpatrick, Bradley and Wilson. Garrett is a sophomore and Johnson and Byrd are juniors.

Katherine Price Foundation continues to help the needy

BELLE GLADE—The Katherine Price Foundation will meet Thursday, May 26 at 8 p.m. at the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce. All members and interested persons are invited to be present. J. B. Simmonds is Co-Chairman for Membership in Belle Glade-South Bay. Judge James Tyson, Jr. is Membership Co-Chairman for Canal Point - Pahokee. Membership cards have been mailed out to those who have paid 1977 dues. Personal letters are being sent to many Glades residents this week inviting them to become members of the Katherine Price Foundation.

The Katherine Price Foundation, Inc. was begun last summer with a series of community meetings of people who want to continue the work of Mrs. I. L. Price of Belle Glade. She has for 30 years collected clothing, furniture, kitchenware, bedding, and groceries to be given those of the Glades area who are in dire need.

She has given aid to families whose homes have burned, to those who are in need due to sickness, disability, unemployment, even to those needing clothing for burial. During many different emergencies caused by hurricanes, floods, accidents and freezes, she has been here, ready to help at short notice.

Although she is nearly 90 years of age, Mrs. Price still works many hours each week in sorting and storing items and giving them to families from the large quantities stored in her house. She says, "I would rather wear out than rust out!"

The Foundation was incorporated as a non-profit charitable agency in October of last year. Its charter requires that all money donated to it must be used to help people in the Glades area of Palm Beach County.

Only residents of the Glades may become members. The Board of Directors consists of representatives of 24 different Glades churches, agencies, civic clubs and communities.

The Internal Revenue Service has approved the Katherine Price Foundation, Inc. to receive tax-deductible donations as a non-profit charity. Application has been made to the United Thank Offering Committee of the national Episcopal Church for $35,000 to purchase a permanent location for the continuation of Mrs. Price's work. Other grants are being requested to allow employment of a full-time administrator and to begin offering emergency overnight lodging and meals.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS, or at least partially open, is the newly remodeled Lake Shore Civic Center across Southwest Avenue E from Lake Shore Middle School. The staff of the Belle Glade Community Development Department moved into new quarters last week, although they're still waiting for the air conditioning to be turned on and other parts of the building are still under construction. Besides the CD offices, the building will house a shop to be used in home repair courses and by hobbyists and a large classroom-meeting area. The new construction was built around the existing Civic Center.

From training program

Correctional officers graduate

The Department of Offender Rehabilitation has announced that Glades Correctional Institution employees, Richard J. Baskinger, David Hise and David Persico recently participated in the Correctional Training Institute at Raiford.

This is the 11th CTI group to enroll in the minimum standards curriculum, which is required by law. The Training Institute program is taught in conjunction with Lake City Community College, and the graduates earn nine semester credits for successfully completing the full time, 160 hour course.

The program includes instruction in the Criminal Justice System, Legal Aspects of Corrections, Operational Procedures, Principles of Supervision, Human Relations and Technical Training Skills which includes Firearms, First Aid and Fire Fighting Techniques.

The Correctional Training Institute was certified by the Florida Correctional Standards Council (CSC) in May, 1976, as a training center for correctional personnel. The Council was empowered by the Legislature in 1974 to establish minimum standards for the certification of correctional officers and training centers.

The curriculum of training is designed to intensify the exposure of the officer and to develop him professionally. It is anticipated that the training program will help materialize the promise of modern correctional system. The participants will continue their training with an additional 160 hours taught by regional instructors, on an in-service basis at the various correctional facilities located throughout Florida.

Members are urged to volunteer for the working committees for the Foundation: clothing, lodging, membership and fund-raising. It is hoped that the Foundation soon will be able to purchase Mrs. Price's home on U.S. Highway 441 north of Belle Glade. At that time workers will be needed to carry on the daily work now being done by Mrs. Price.

ALLEN JOHNSON kicks off to a start in the 440 yard run at Winter Park Saturday in a vain attempt by the Glades Central boys track team to win points at the state track meet. In competition which saw several state and national records fall, the Raiders were among almost 40 teams in the state to fail to make points.

Knowles and Bernard Walker. Standing are Bobby Brereton, Steve Wilson, Ernest Moreland, Craig Knowles, Eli Martin, Mickey Bradley, Kenneth Henderson, Allen Johnson and Don Andrews.

Branch Offices of Palm Beach County Tax Collector Allyn Clark will begin issuing the new uniform Alpha-numeric License plates within the next few weeks as the stock of current orange-on-white plates is exhausted.

These newly designed license plates are green-on-white and will have three letters and three numbers for passenger cars, trucks up to 5,000 pounds and self-propelled motor homes; two letters and four numbers for trucks over 5,000 pounds, buses and ambulances; one letter and five numbers for mobile homes as well as non-propelled trailers; and six numbers for motorcycles.

The new license plates will only be distributed to those persons registering their vehicles in Florida for the first time; those with new vehicles purchased without transferable license plates, and those who have lost their current plate.

The rest of the motoring population will have to wait until at least two years, since the Florida Legislature recently delayed full implementation of the conversion until July 1, 1979.

Approximately 2.5 million new plates have been made and estimates from the Department of Motor Vehicles indicate that about two million of the State's 7.5 million registered vehicles will get new plates this year.

Clark stated that each of his five Branch Offices will have the new plates on hand by May 12.

NOTICE
SERVICES TO PERSONS UNABLE TO PAY EVERGLADES MEMORIAL HOSPITAL PAHOKEE, FLORIDA

The Bureau of Community Medical Facilities, Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, State of Florida, has established the sum of $40,000.00 as the level of uncompensated services to be made available by Everglades Memorial Hospital in the period of Oct. 1, 1976 to Sept. 30, 1977. This determination has been made pursuant to the requirements of the regulations of the Public Health Service, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, (42 CFR, 53.111) and the applicable provisions of Florida Medical Facilities Construction Plan. "Uncompensated services" means services available in the facility which are made available to persons unable to pay therefore without charge or at a charge which is less than the reasonable cost of such services. The level of such services is measured by the difference between the amount paid by such persons for the services and the reasonable cost thereof. The level set out above meets the presumptive compliance guidelines of the federal regulations and is 10 percent of all federal assistance provided the facility under the Hospital and Medical Facilities Construction Act.

Everglades Memorial Hospital has the right to determine how, when and to whom hospital services will be provided. There are no guidelines which positively identify a person or family as eligible to receive full or partial uncompensated services. Each case must be evaluated on its own merits. 507-49 May 19, 1977

Society hears of highway construction

Shirley and Harry Davis have opened up Belle Antiques at 132 SE 7th Street North in Belle Glade this month. Both husband and wife are graduates of Ole Miss, and Shirley has her masters degree from the University of Southern Mississippi at Hattiesburg and Harry's was at Ole Miss. Both have done extra hours towards a possible doctorate (25 hours for Mrs. Davis and about 30 hours for Harry), and both are in the Palm Beach School system - Harry as principal at Belle Glade Elementary and his wife as administrative assistant at Lakeshore Elementary. Harry used to coach the Golden Rams at the old Belle Glade High. The couple has had two daughters go through the Belle Glade School system and both graduated from the University of Florida.

The Glades Historical Society presented the final program of the year in a meeting at the Fellowship Hall of the United Methodist Church in Pahokee at 3:00 p.m. on Sunday, May 15. A program describing the building of the Conners' Highway from Okeechobee to twenty mile bend - the first toll road, and events of that colorful historical era was given by pioneer residents of Pahokee. Mr. Robert Simonson served as host of the program and introduced the speakers.

Mr. Carmen Salvatore who came to Pahokee in 1919 described the critical need in the early twenties for a road to take farm produce to the coast. The only way to transport vegetables and people at that time was by boat. In 1922 the rains came in April and within twenty days the level of Lake Okeechobee rose five feet.

Travel from Pahokee to Kissimmee could be made by boat on a solid sheet of water. Hopes for a road were slim at first but Guy Stovall got in touch with W. J. Conners, a realtor in Palm Beach, and as a result the Conners Highway was built and finished in 1924.

H. C. Graham described how the road was built and described his work of running a grader. The road was leveled off on July 2, 1924 and people in cars began to use it. The next day it rained and the road was washed out. The road was graded up again and blacktopped.

Mr. Salvatore described how the highway was decided to the state and the final $340,000 indebtedness was paid off after the death of Conners.

Mr. C. M. Todd with his wife Uldine came to join his father in Pahokee in 1919. Mr. Todd became the school teacher for the school in Pahokee and shortly after Mrs. Todd became the school teacher at the little red school house on Sacom Point Road, walking the distance from and to Pahokee each day. In the early 1930's the citizens of Pahokee sent Mr. Todd to Tallahassee to see Governor David Sholtis to ask him to build a road between Pahokee and Belle Glade where only a muck dike road existed. Mr. Todd pointed out the great need and reminded the governor that people in the Glades paid gasoline taxes, too. Governor Sholtis immediately responded, "Mr. Todd, you've got a road!"

Mr. Ivan VanHorn came to Beach City in 1914. He went to school near Okeelanta in a boat, leaving before dawn and returning after dark. He spoke of running a boat to a Fourth of July celebration in Pahokee in 1920. Pogy Bill of Okeechobee fame, had celebrated and was stretched out asleep under the dock.

Mrs. Uldene Todd, Mrs. Helen Friend Morgan and Mrs. Christine Wheeler Elliott spoke of early days in Pahokee and cited incidents from those early pioneer days. Mrs. Todd described the thrill of crossing Lake Okeechobee on Captain Johnson's boat and the great pleasures of pioneer life as well as the hardships which were endured. The people in Pahokee were a close knit group who helped each other. A walk along the dike to get ice cream at the drug store when ice could be had was an event. Water from the lake was taken home by the bucket full. People took towels and a bar of soap and Lake Okeechobee provided a giant bathtub.

Mrs. Mabel Friend Morgan described the work she did on the farm of her father, Frank Friend. She drove a tractor and did all the different jobs that led to the picking of green beans and other crops. Mrs. Christine Elliott was a late comer to Pahokee. In 1929 she lived with her family in a bungalow that had the distinction of a tin sink in the kitchen fed by running water from an outside tank that collected rainwater.

Her family was quite surprised, on cleaning the tank during a dry spell, to find six or eight snakes in the bottom of the tank. A trip to West Palm Beach in 1918 involved two days. People went on one day, stayed overnight in a boarding house, and returned by boat the next day. Later progress was made when they went by boat to twenty mile bend and then took a jitney bus to West Palm Beach.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program by the Pahokee women. Mrs. Martha Allison, President of the Glades Historical Society, announced that the group will meet again the second Tuesday in November.

How many American workers are holding more than one job? How many are working overtime and what is their overtime pay? What are workers' usual hours on their jobs?

Mr. Thomas W. McWhirter, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Atlanta, announced today that information in response to these questions will be collected during the week of May 16-21 from a sample of households in this area. The questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 70,000 across the country specifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of economic conditions in the Nation. The March survey indicated that of the 96.5 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 89.5 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate, 7.3 percent, compared to 7.5 percent in February, and substantially below the recession peak of 9.0 percent reached in the May of 1975.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area include: Mrs. Doris Rosenberg, Mrs. Betty Garriga and Mrs. Selma Levitt.
